Between November 1953 and 1 January 1954, one to nine aircraft with sweptback wings flew daily over Ningpo (N 29- 52, E 121 - 32). The aircraft usually appeared between 0800 and 0900 hours from a westerly direction. After flying over Ningpo the aircraft turned to the northwest. They usually flew at an altitude low enough for the red stars on the wings to be visible to the naked eye from the ground.
